VODVIL FINALE TO BE PRESENTED IN THE GYM TONIGHT

First Performance Put on Last Night; Headliners on Both Nights

"JUST A KISS" FEATURED
Practically Every Fraternity and Sorority Represented in Many Acts Presented

Final plans for the fourth annual Vodvil were completed Monday night and the show was presented for the first time in the gymnasium last night. Tonight the final performance will be put on, starting at 8.30 p. m., as was the case last night.

Tryouts were held on the evenings of November 18, 19, 20, and 22, and virtually every fraternity and sorority, as well as a number of other organizations were represented.

More interest has been displayed in this activity than ever before, and the entertainment has all promise of being the snappiest and most varied of all such productions heretofore attempted.

The presentation of the Vodvil in the fall, instead of the spring, as usual, is most advantageous in stirring up school spirit. After the final curtain each night, the gymnasium will be given over to the cheerleaders and a spirited pep meeting will put the students in the proper mood for the Catholic University game.

Many acts have been coached by professionals. The song and dance numbers seem to lead in popularity and there are many such on the program.

There is a slightly different program each night to accommodate all the entries. The headliners, of course, are running both nights. Some of these are "Just a Kiss," by the Troubadours; "Romeo and Juliet," a farce opera by Chi Omega; "The War of the Roses," a twelve girl chorus in a clever local satire, by Sigma Kappa; "It Pays to Advertise," an advertising revue by Pi Phi; "A Night in Bagdad," a colorful musical act by the Art Promoters Club; "The Four Spades," the Black Bottom, and songs by a Glee Club quartet; and "A Lesson in Old China," an oriental novelty by Phi Mu.

G. W. Among Leaders
Stage management and lighting are under the direction of William J. Ellenberger, who is assisted by Francis Hoffelns, assistant manager, Gale Murphy, Ralph Remley, Hugh Wertz, and Richard Johnson.

As there is no regular orchestra for the production, each act is providing its own music. Elmer Brown, pianist for the Troubadours, is furnishing the accompaniment for several acts.

The profits of the Vodvil will be applied to the dramatic equipment fund to further better University shows at George Washington. The University of Michigan, University of Pennsylvania, and Penn State are among the leading universities of the country which have recognized dramatics as a popular means of securing nation-wide reputations.

In accordance with the increasing spirit of competition displayed in all the various activities on the campus, this endeavor is a milestone in the progress of the University in the realm of the footlights. Present returns from the sale of reserved seat tickets corroborate this and a record audience is expected at the performances. Tickets are fifty cents each, and may be secured at the Treasurer's Office or at the door the night of the performance.

INTERFRAT DANCE WILL BE HELD THANKSGIVING

Music to Be Furnished by Elmer Brown and His Orchestra of Troubadour Fame

Following the G. W.-Catholic University football game Thanksgiving Day a large crowd is expected by the Interfraternity council to attend its tea dance, in Corcoran Hall from 5 until 8.

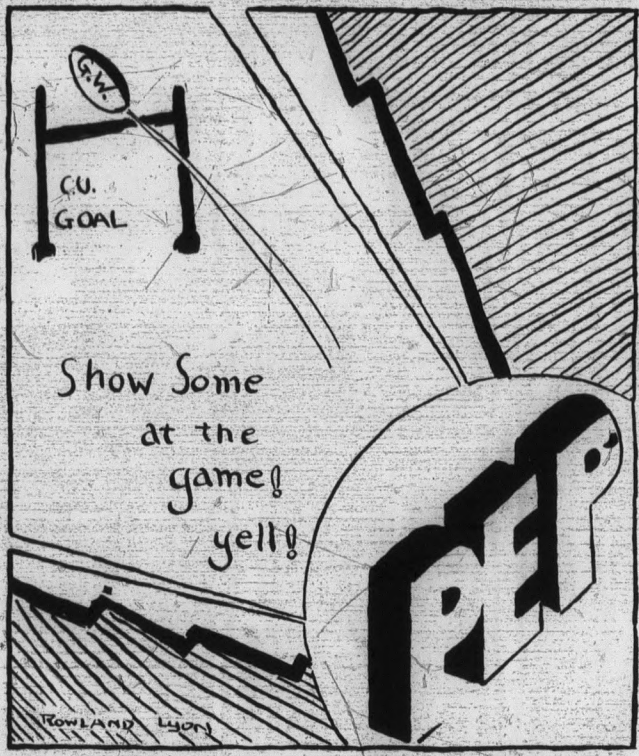

Elmer Brown's orchestra will furnish the music, and the dance will be one of the banner social events of the year. With the crowd widely elated over the victory, now hopefully anticipated, it should be a decided success.

According to an announcement made at the Interfraternity council meeting held at the Theta Upsilon Omega house Sunday morning plans for the dance have been completed. It was also officially announced that Kappa Sigma had won the basketball championship, and that the cup voted to them, will be presented at the Interfraternity prom.

Two members of each fraternity will serve as floor committee at the Thanksgiving dance, to see that order is kept. One dollar admission will be charged.

XMAS PLANS TO AID POOR

Plans are being made for G. W.'s annual Christmas charity work. The committee in charge is in touch with the Juvenile Protective Association and are deciding which family is most in need of help.

COIF INSTALLED BY DR. W. W. COOK

National President of Honorary Law School Order Also Principal Speaker

DEAN VAN VLECK PRESIDES

President William Mather Lewis Guest of Honor; Congratulates Law Faculty in Speech

By HARRY S. WENDER

Practical application of law to the actual problems of every-day life was most earnestly stressed by Professor Walter Wheeler Cook, of Yale University, National President of the Order of the Coif, at the installation of the George Washington Chapter of the organization, last Thursday evening, at a banquet held at the University Club. Professor Cook stated that the time will soon come when lawyers will have to become economists to understand the proper legal aspect of the conditions of the times. He brought out the fact that there are a countless number of antiquated laws in existence today which were made two or three centuries ago, and which should be brought up to date in conformity with present social and economic conditions. He also spoke of the necessity of more time being devoted to the various phases of legal research in the leading law schools of the country.

Dr. Cook told of the origin of the Order of the Coif. The first chapter was formed in 1902 at the University of Illinois. At that time it was known as Theta Kappa Nu National Honorary Fraternity. A few years later a local honor fraternity was formed at Northwestern University under the name of the Order of the Coif.

In 1910, the latter was admitted to the national organization, and the following year, at the annual convention, it was decided to change the name to that held by the Northwestern body. Since that time the fraternity's growth has been rapid, and there are few large law schools in the country where the Order of the Coif does not have a chapter.

President Lewis Introduced

Dean William Van Vleck, presiding officer, in commenting on the growth of the school since 1910, stated that the peak of registration came after the war. He emphasized that although the total registration this year is less than it was several years ago, the full time day classes have only one student.

BIG PEP MEETING AT THE ASSEMBLY TODAY

There will be a big pep meeting in Corcoran Hall 1, at 11 a. m. this morning. The Blue Key has pledged itself to be there in full force, and there are rumors that "Safety League," the unofficial Freshman organization, is determined to be the real star of the occasion and repeat its recent victory over the sophomores, this time in cheering. Jerry Slicker will be there with his band of Howling Hounds and all the organizations, including the fraternities and sororities are expected out in full force.

LEWIS SPEAKS BEFORE PARENT-TEACHER BODY

Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of the University, spoke at a meeting of the Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations at Towson, Maryland, on Friday, November 19. He also delivered a speech on November 20 at a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel, given by the Federation of Civic Clubs.

GIRLS' DEBATING TRIO VICTORIOUS

Win Over Cornell University Team By 2 to 1 Decision in Opener

VANQUISH IMPROVED TEAM

George Washington Team Upholds Negative on National Supervision of Public Education

The girls' debating team of George Washington University obtained a 2-1 decision in their favor over the team from Cornell University last Friday night in Corcoran Hall. Ruth Newburn, Lillian Rhodes, and Fannie Neiman, who made up the G. W. trio, upheld the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the public education system in the United States should be supervised by the national government."

The G. W. team supported the argument that education supervised by the national government would be unnecessary, impracticable, and unwise. The Cornell team, composed of Harriet Lange, Jeanette Hanford, and Margaret Plunkett, held that our present system is not good, suggested a plan of improvement, and endeavored to show how it would be beneficial.

Visitors' Technique Good

The Cornell debaters showed good technique and much improvement over last year. Margaret Plunkett proved herself their most outstanding speaker.

Harriet Lange, first speaker for the affirmative, defined supervision, stated the defects of our present system, traced the development of education from the early sixties, and offered the criticism that our system has no standard for teachers and no (Continued on page 4.)

THE GHOST, FAMOUS CAMPUS COMIC, TO REVISIT EARTHLY SPHERE AT GAME

Copies of "Revival Number" To Be Sold During Game at Brookland Stadium Tomorrow; Press Club, Publishers of Magazine, Promise Clever Surprises in Book

See 'dat nigger run!' Sho' he's arunnin' to de Ghost am after him.

Just as the Ghost is after the nigger, so is that Ghost after the gloom on the campus. Anyway this is the impression gained from an interview with the staff of the comic.

The "Revival Number" of the Ghost, George Washington University's comic magazine which is being revived after almost five years of absence from the campus, will go on sale at the G. W.-C. U. game at Brookland tomorrow. The George Washington Press Club, the organization which is publishing the famous comic, has ordered only a limited number of books and expects to dispose of them in short order.

Magazines left over after the sale at the game will be sold on the campus Friday and Saturday, or may be obtained at the University Hatchet office. They will also be placed on sale at the office of the Medical School. Copies are 25 cents each.

Four copies of the comic will be published this year by the Press Club. The second issue, which will be on sale January 20, is to be the "Historical Number" and promises to be larger than the first issue.

Some clever art work and humorous matter is reported to be in the magazine appearing tomorrow. Rowland Lyon, famous campus cartoonist and artist, has done the cover. Among the other artists contributing to the magazine are D. Taylor, Peggy Somervell, Marion Stewart, Helen

PEP MEETING TONIGHT

After the performance last night, the Vodvil was turned into a pep meeting. A similar meeting will be held in this morning's chapel, and if there are a sufficient number of people present Coach Crum promises to have the team there. They may speak, but of this there is no assurance. It is planned to turn the Vodvil into a pep meeting tonight also.

CAMBRIDGE TRIO TO DEBATE HERE MONDAY EVENING

To Argue on Tendency Toward Government Invasion of Individual Rights

BRITISHERS EXPERIENCED

Student Activity Tickets Will Admit to Gym; Other Tickets On Sale at $1

From the standpoint of the audience, the International Debate with Cambridge University, to be held in the Gymnasium Monday evening, November 23, will undoubtedly prove the most interesting debate of the season. In addition to being an entertaining clash of wits, this tilt with the English forensic trio will give the George Washington team an excellent opportunity to show their mettle.

The subject to be discussed is, "Resolved, That this House oppose the growing tendency of government to invade the rights of individuals."

Cambridge will be represented by A. L. Hutchinson, Christ's College; H. G. G. Herklots, Trinity College; and W. G. Fordham, Magdalene College. Mr. Hutchinson is a Socialist, and has often participated in political campaigns. He has been very active in debating at Cambridge, and has been elected President of the Milton Society and of the debating society of Christ's College, and Secretary and Vice President of the Cambridge Union. In addition, Mr. Hutchinson is reputed to be an excellent tennis player.

Englishman Is Author

Mr. Herklots was born in India, and received his early education at Trent College, Derbyshire. In contrast to most of the English debaters of other years, he is not a politician, but an author. He was editor of his college magazine at Trinity, and during the past year he has been the editor of the "Grata," the best known university journal in Europe. His first book, "Jack of All Trades," was published last June. Mr. Herklots is now doing post-graduate work in theology, and he hopes to soon be ordained a deacon in the English Church.

Mr. Fordham is a resident of London. He received his preliminary education at St. George's School, Harpenden. Mr. Fordham is a law student, and a member of the Inner Temple. He is a Liberalist and has written many articles on Liberalism. He has been President of the Magdalene Law Society, and is a life member of the Committee of the Union Society. In addition to his active participation in things literary, Mr. Fordham is a prominent football player and has been captain of his team.

To oppose this brilliant array of talent, George Washington is placing three men in the field who are excellent debaters, although their activities in other spheres have been somewhat more limited. John Trimble, a native (Continued on page 4.)

CAPT. HENRY SAPP

PI DELTA EPSILON BIDS HONOR SIX NEW MEN

Fraternity to Hold Banquet December Seventh to Celebrate National Founders Day

The George Washington University Chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, the national honorary journalistic fraternity, will celebrate the National Founders Day of the fraternity with a banquet to be held the evening of December 7. Many honorary and graduate members of the fraternity are expected to swell the list of those present.

Among the honorary members who are expected to attend are Prof. Henry G. Doyle, of the University, who is national vice president of the organization, Leonard Hall, dramatic editor of the Washington News, Norman Baxter, political editor of the Washington Post, Mr. Daniel C. Chace, of the journalism department of the University, and Prof. DeWitt C. Croissant, of the English Department of the University.

New Men

Six new members were bid by the fraternity at a meeting held in the Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity house last Wednesday night.

They are R. Campbell Starr, member of the Hatchet Board of Editors and the G. W. Press Club, Rowland Lyon, business manager of the Cherry Tree, staff cartoonist of the University Hatchet, and member of Sigma Nu fraternity and the Press Club, Robert Sterns, editor of the Cherry Tree and member of Sigma Nu fraternity, Sherman Johnson, news editor of the University Hatchet and member of Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity, Joe D. Walstrom, literary editor of the Hatchet, former dramatic editor of that publication, and member of Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity and the G. W. Press Club, and Elbert Huber, assistant literary editor of the Hatchet, member of Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity and the G. W. Press Club.

Two years membership on the staff of a recognized publication of the University is required for membership in the honorary fraternity.

Plans are being made by the local body for the publication of the Razz Berry, satirical publication, which comes out at the Junior Reception in February.

PREXY TO GIVE TALK AT FRAT COUNCIL MEETING

Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of the University, will speak November 27, at a banquet at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City, celebrating the eighteenth annual session of the Inter-fraternity Conference. The subject of his speech will be "Fraternalism from the President's Window."

George Washington University men who will be present at the banquet are A. Bruce Bielaski and Frank S. Hemmick, both of Delta Tau Delta. A. Bruce Bielaski is active in the New York George Washington University Alumni Club.

By KINGSLAND PRENDER

Tomorrow marks the grand finale of the football season. At 2 o'clock the George Washington Colonials will go into battle against the cardinal-clad cohorts of Catholic University at the Brookland Stadium. Both elevens have been pointing for the Thanksgiving Day classic since the beginning of the season, and appear to be closely matched in every department of the game.

The officials have prepared for an attendance of close to fifteen thousand fans, and have reserved the far side of the Stadium for the Buff and Blue rooters. As was the case last year, Student Activity cards will not admit. The admission charge for the game will be $1.

High morale is prevalent among the members of the Hatchet squad, and Coach Crum stated, "We are going out there and do our best; but win, lose, or draw, it is going to be a battle from start to finish."

This is Crum's third year as coach at George Washington. One victory and one defeat in the two previous Turkey Day affairs are chalked up, and he hopes to break the tie.

On the eve of the battle the coaches of both teams seem confident of victory, as each has his men in excellent condition.

Hottel Out of Game

Coach Crum of the Colonials will not be able to use his star guard, Guy Hottel, as he is on the casualty list due to injuries received recently. Hottel has played no small part in the success of the team and his absence is bound to be felt.

Jack McAuliffe, Brookland mentor, may start Emil Mayer, star end and captain, who up to this game has been out, due to a serious injury received in pre-season practice. If Mayer does get into the fray the outlook of C. U. will be much brighter.

This season each team has played seven scheduled games, several of which were with the best teams in the East. Among those played by the Axemen were the strong Penn State, Bucknell, William and Mary, and Ursinus football machines. Of these, Ursinus was the only one to bow to the Co-

PREXY TO GIVE SPEECH AT THE FOOTBALL HOP

G. W. U. Athletic Record Boards To Be Presented at That Time

President Lewis has agreed to deliver the presentation speech at the Football Hop on December 3, and to unveil the two athletic record boards which the Men's G. W. Club is placing in the gymnasium. Following the presentation Coach "Maud" Crum and Captain Henry Sapp will speak.

Johnny Slaughter and his Hotel Powhatan orchestra will furnish the music for the Hop. A special program, which will include numbers by several professional dancers, is being arranged for the intermission.

Tickets on Sale

Tickets are now on sale at $2.50 for a couple, or for an individual, and may be had at the Medical School, the Law School, or at the Treasurer's Office of Columbian College.

The record boards are to be placed at the H Street end of the Gymnasium. According to the plans of the club, they will be veiled with G. W. flags until the presentation is made. The lettering of the boards will be done in gold on a dark background.

FEW SEATS LEFT

The few remaining reserved seats to "The Whole Towns Talking," to be given in the gymnasium on November 26, will be on sale in the gymnasium on Friday evening. These seats will be held until the end of the first act, and will then be opened to persons holding unreserved seats.

TOMORROW'S FOOTBALL GAME

As the day of the annual gridiron struggle with Catholic University draws near, we feel compelled to reflect a bit upon the past and its reference to the future. This is "Maud" Crum's third year as Coach here. The Cardinals were met and vanquished during Crum's first season. Last year the Brooklanders triumphed, crediting the Hatchet mentor with one win and one defeat. This year's team appears to be the best that Crum has produced, but it is to be remembered that the Red Birds have not been idle. They are worthy foemen. The principal thing for the Buff and Blue to guard against is overconfidence, that superiority complex, which has been responsible for many a downfall on the white-striped arena. Tomorrow will break the tie. Which way will it go? Come out and see.

CONDITIONS IN THE LIBRARY

Any student who has to use the University Library during the morning and evening classes faces a condition of affairs that is almost intolerable. Especially between eleven and eleven-fifty in the morning is this condition most evident. During that period seats in the Library are at a premium, and the Librarian has been forced to make a rule that all students who are not using reference books be barred from the room at that period. This forces those who wish to write or study their textbooks to use the vacant classrooms, where order is not controlled nor proper facilities for such work made.

We realize that the condition is present only because the University is unable to do better for the students at this time, but we hope it will be possible to relieve it in the very near future. Possibly an extension to the Library, even if only temporary, could be arranged, even if only in the form of a classroom with an assistant librarian in charge. One solution for a portion of the problem would be for some of the students to use the fine Law School Library during this period. We only hope that something can be done, and done quickly, to alleviate a condition that is very bad.

THANKSGIVING

The last flickering hope that the Thanksgiving Holidays might be granted after all seems to have faded with the official announcement that classes will hold forth on Friday and Saturday. We must bow to our fate, evidently. But we cannot help noticing that our collegiate colleagues from other schools all over the country pack their bags and hop off for a delightful breathing spell during the Turkey season. And often, we notice, those very schools begin later and have a two week's spring vacation. So, it is not without protest that we give up this week-end. We bid for consideration next year, at least, and trust that we are speaking far enough in advance.

THE ANNUAL VODVIL

Dramatics have donned the Seven League Boots in the past year. The Annual Vodvil is to be given two nights with completely different programs. The Players are producing a strictly up-to-date drama this week. The Mimes promise a three-act play in the near future. These performances for the general public are in addition to the monthly programs of the Players, the talks given by George Washington professors under the auspices of the Dionysians, and the series of lectures recently given by Professor Gilmer of Tufts College.

This work done in the first semester will in no way interfere with the Spring Dramatic Festival. Further, it will eliminate the "joiners," who usually look up a dramatic organization after mid-year exams to "make" a varsity cast. This will insure experienced actors, and thus raise the standard of the Spring Festival.

Dramatics can continue to develop only in proportion to the support of the students of the University. This is an individual matter. Have YOU bought YOUR tickets for the performances this week?

Kappa Sigma celebrated its victory of last Monday evening with a very delightful informal gathering at the chapter house. This was immediately following the capture of the Interfraternity Basketball Cup. The Freshman orchestra furnished the evening's entertainment.

The T. O. U.'s are preparing for a hot Thanksgiving dance at their house Thursday night. Bran Hughes' orchestra will supply the pep.

Kappa Delta gave a peppy dance at the house last Tuesday with 25 rushees as guests.

Kappa Sigma chapter was honored by a visit from Captain E. L. Stoniger of the Nebraska chapter, who was on route by airplane from Florida to Columbus, Ohio, to see the Ohio-Michigan football game. Brothers John Mullen and Pat Flaherty accompanied him by plane and witnessed the game, returning with him Sunday morning.

Col. and Mrs. W. M. McKelvey entertained at dinner for their daughter, Miss Elizabeth McKelvey, in honor of Miss Marian Gilmer, president of Gamma province of the Phi Beta Phi Fraternity, and the officers of the Columbia Alpha Chapter, at their home on Legation Street, November 19, 1926.

Sigma Kappa entertained several girls at supper Monday, a week ago. They also entertained at four tables of bridge, Friday, November 19.

Several visiting Kappas and a number of rushees were guests at a luncheon given by Gamma Beta Phi in the sorority rooms last Friday afternoon. Marguerite Daly was presented with a book entitled "The Tricks and Confessions of a Housekeeper," copyrighted in 1859, and beautifully illustrated with modern pictures. Among the visitors were Ann Blanton, Mary Chittick, Mabel Dalton, and Mrs. Hannah Hunt Stokes.

Cadet Hugh Waesche, former student at George Washington University, visited Washington last week on leave of absence from V. P. I.

A shower for Virginia Pate, whose marriage to E. Hilliard Macomber will take place Friday, was held last Wednesday at the Kappa Delta House.

Delta Tau Delta announces the pledging of John Callahan.

Betty Kilbourne recently entertained a number of friends at a bridge party at her home.

On Tuesday night Lydagene Black entertained the Phi Mu Sorority and fifteen rushees at a gypsy ceremonial at her home. The house was artistically decorated in autumn leaves, and the program carried out the idea of a gypsy encampment.

The active chapter of the Phi Beta Phi Fraternity was hostess at a tea, Friday, November 19, 1926, for Miss Marian Gilmer, province president.

The Kappa Sigma alumni met at the house on Thursday, November 18. The meeting was unique in that the founders of three chapters were present. Among the distinguished alumni were Assistant Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, Dunlap, Dean William L. Prince, District Grand Master, Hon. John S. Bethune, U. S. Tariff Commission, and Doctor C. W. Selbert, one of the founders of the George Washington chapter, and a prominent physician of this city. Major Bernard R. Kennedy, Colonel Claude H. Birdseye, of the Geological Survey, Thomas E. Lodge, former U. S. District Attorney.

Matalee Lake has been at Galesburg, Illinois, since last week, where she has been much entertained at the college there, together with other members of the wedding party of Carolyn Wallace and Professor Grant Lewi, of the University of Delaware.

Virginia Pate gave a delightful tea at her home last Sunday. The Kappa Deltas were guests.

Phi Mu held its first dance of the year at the Willard Hotel on Thursday night. Members of the active chapter and alumnae were present.

Katherine Bannerman, Anne Snure, Beth Hayes, and Margaret Black motored to Philadelphia for the week-end and attended the Sesqui.

The Lambda Phi Mu Medical Fraternity announces the pledging of the following: L. Gentile, V. Galati, E. License, J. Purpurd, A. Mazzacana, F. Marinello, R. Carotenuto, P. D'Ambola, G. Grieco, and D. DeSoto. Initiation into the fraternity is expected to take place shortly after Christmas.

Miss Marian Gilmer, president of the Gamma province of the Phi Beta Phi Fraternity, was the guest of honor at the weekly rush luncheon given by the Phi Beta in their fraternity rooms, Friday, November 19, 1926.

Zeta Tau Alpha is giving a luncheon today, in the sorority rooms.

Theta Delta Chi had open house for all the fraternities and sororities last Sunday from 4 to 6.

An informal dance was given last Friday night at the Theta Delta Chi house.

Zeta Tau Alpha entertained a group of Freshman girls at an informal bridge in the sorority rooms, Wednesday evening, November 17.

Miss Eleanor Folsom motored to Annapolis last Saturday, where she attended the Georgetown-Navy game.

Kappa Sigma chapter held its annual Thanksgiving Dance on Friday, November 19. The house was very attractively and appropriately decorated for the occasion. Music was furnished by the Naomi Band. A large number of the local alumni joined the chapter in the festivities.

Phi Mu announces the pledging of Katherine Bannerman.

Alma Miller entertained at lunch in her apartment last Tuesday. The guests included Betty Brandenburg, Emily Pilkinton, Betty Chipman, and Julia Denning.

Chi Omega entertained with a rush luncheon on Saturday in their rooms.

Miss Sue Montgomery, national officer of Chi Omega, has been a guest of the chapter during the past week. While here she was guest of honor at a bridge party given by Florence Kirby Younger and also at a Chi Omega dinner given for her at Pierre's on Thursday evening.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bondurant on November 20, a girl. The proud father is a member of Acacia and Ruth Bondurant is a Kappa Delta.

J. N. Danehower, J. L. Vosburg, and C. F. June, all members of Epsilon Alpha chapter of Theta Upsilon Omega fraternity located at Temple University, Philadelphia, visited the local chapter last Sunday. J. N. Danehower is arch recorder of the national fraternity.

Sigma Chi's annual Thanksgiving formal will be held Friday evening, November 26, in the Willard Room of the Willard Hotel. Music will be furnished by Dick Leibert and his band.

Sigma Chi's annual oyster roast was held Tuesday evening, November 16, at the Capitol Yacht Club. Among the many notable Sigs who attended were Stephen T. Mather, director of national parks; Rush Holland, ex-assistant attorney-general, and William W. Bridge, ex-com ul-general to Panama.

AVUKAH TO DANCE

Avukah will hold a dance at the Arlington Hotel on December 4. Tickets are $2.00 and may be secured from any of the members of the club. Among the features will be a novelty dance by Helen Notes.

Chips

We seem to have an abundance of child prodigies at George Washington. Take for instance the little Freshman reporter who rushed into the Hatchet office Tuesday night and demanded a copy of the Hatchet immediately. She turned to the second page, and on beholding that HER article was there, she let out a loud whoop, jumped into air, and dropped all her books. A kindly Hatchette picked up her books for her, and helped her out of the office, from whence she ran home to tell the glad news to her mother.

One H. Spitzer came near being cut off in the bloom of his youth for doing nothing more criminal than sticking too closely to the path of duty. He called time on a fair co-ed who held forth in Public Speaking class on a hair-raising experience in a Pullman sleeper. Each orator was allowed one minute to tell an interesting personal experience.

Many and varied were the stories, but this special one carried all the ear marks of being a "hot one." The class was just "getting up on it's ear," when Spitzer, having been designated to call time, yelled forth and cut short the narration, despite the vigorous protests from nearby students. The climax came when the girl went up to Mr. Farnham after class and finished the tale, accompanied by violent blushes on the part of the latter. The whole class hung around in hopes of getting in on the grande finale, but in vain; only the Prof. was favored.

Most of us agree that Dr. Gilmer's lectures on the drama last week were the best offering of its kind the University has given us this year. But we couldn't help being amused at the woman, who, after two hours of the professor's enthusiastic spurlings on drama in Moscow and Riga, had to read the bulletin board to find out what the lecture was about.

Warren Buchanan Campbell left for Michigan last week to get his new Oakland roadster. He left it there on his return to school this fall—evidently he has just felt the lack of it. Some say, however, that Warren wants to bring it here to be christened.

tened. "Emily" would be a fitting name, we imagine.

"Howdy" Eager is reported to have been much mortified when he got false information that Michigan had been fatally injured in the game. Rumors have it that he wanted to commit suicide by drowning himself. "Howdy" is an ardent supporter of Michigan, we know, and we should not be surprised if these rumors held some truth.

DIONYSIANS WILL HOLD TRIALS NEXT TUESDAY

Varsity Play to Be Selected December 1; Dean Henning to Talk on Drama

November tryouts for positions in the Dionysian Producing Company will be held November 30, Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Rehearsal Room. The following types of work are offered: Research, Playing, Costume Design, Scenic Design, Business Management, and Advertising.

The varsity play will be chosen Wednesday, December 1, following the fifth Dionysian lecture to be delivered by Dean Henning, who will talk on the "Dramas of Cornelle and Racine."

The Dionysians are specializing this year in the French classical drama. Last Wednesday in the Rehearsal Room Professor Croissant spoke on "Some 17th Century Dramatic Developments," tracing the origin of the French stage and the development of the French drama upward from their social roots.

Rehearsals for the varsity play will start promptly, Tuesday, February 1, at which time it is expected a complete production staff will have been chosen.

FRESHMAN GRID TEAM DEFEATS ST. ALBAN'S

Enemy Team Outplayed by Colonial Fresh on Muddy Field; Score, 13-7

George Washington University Freshmen defeated Saint Alban's School, on November 2, by a score of 13 to 7 at the Saint Alban's field. The game was played on a muddy gridiron and was marred by several costly fumbles.

The first touchdown came early in the game when Slye, G. W. left end, caught a thirty-five yard pass and went over the line. Edgerton dropped the extra point.

The only Saint Alban's touchdown came as a result of a G. W. fumble. C. Fletcher recovering the ball. Weaver then smashed through the line for a touchdown and dropped the extra point.

The Freshmen's second touchdown came in the second quarter as the result of a Saint Alban's fumble. Rosen recovering and racing across.

During the remainder of the game both teams appeared equal in strength, neither scoring. Both teams fumbled continually.

The work of Boyd and Rosen of the Freshmen and Weaver of Saint Alban's, was outstanding. Both Boyd and Weaver consistently smashed through the line for long gains.

The Freshmen used the huddle system instead of calling signals.

Riflemen to Meet Columbia Saturday

Telegraphic Match With New Yorkers To Open Rifle Season; Prospects Are Bright

After several weeks of strenuous preparation the G. W. Rifle team is all ready for the rifle match with Columbia to be shot Saturday.

At the practice meets the Colonial team made gratifying scores and indications for a successful battle with the New Yorkers are evident.

The rifle team is open to any one desiring to join and try-outs are held on Friday and Saturday evenings, although the range is open nearly every day in the week for prospective sharpshooters.

NEWMAN CLUB PLANS MEETING AND DANCE

The Newman Club will hold its next meeting Tuesday, November 30, in Corcoran Hall. Dr. John Cartwright will give a talk on Cardinal Newman. Catholic students have been especially invited to come to this meeting by the Club.

Plans have been completed for an informal dance to be given at G. W. Tuesday, December 14. This will be the second of a group of social affairs given by the Club and is to be followed by a card party early in January.

C. U. HAS EDGE IN PREVIOUS FRAYS

Brooklanders Have Won Four Out of Six Games Played Since War

C. U. VICTORY LAST YEAR

Cardinal Eleven Has Scored 35 Points to 35 For Crum's Aggregation

By HERBERT E. ANGEL
When the referee's whistle sounds to start the annual Thanksgiving Day fray tomorrow between the gridiron warriors of George Washington and Catholic Universities at the C. U. stadium in Brookland, it will mark the seventh such battle since the war.

The Cardinals have an edge on the Colonials in the matter of these Turkey Day encounters, the former having taken four of the six games played since athletic hostilities were resumed at the close of the war. In 1920 the Brooklanders blanked the Hatchettes by a 13-0 count, and repeated their victory the following year, 19-7. From that time the laurels of victory have rested alternately upon the banners of first one school and then the other.

George Washington came back in 1922 and downed the Cardinals, 14-7, only to be handed a 26-0 setback in 1923. They obtained their revenge by scoring two touchdowns the next year, and keeping their own goal line uncrossed, for a 14-0 G. W. victory. Last year the wearers of the Maroon and Black attempted to sweep the lighter Crummen off their feet with a dazzling aerial attack. Gamely the Colonials fought back, staving off three separate drives on their goal during the first quarter, only to have it crossed by reason of superior weight in the second quarter. Again the Buff and Blue line braced, and held the heavy machine scoreless for the remainder of the half, which ended 7-0.

G. W.'s Turn

With Sapp and Wilton playing a magnificent defensive game, further scoring was prevented until the latter part of the third quarter, when another touchdown chalked up six counters for the Brooklanders, and an attempt for the extra point failed. Another touchdown and extra point came to the Cardinals early in the fourth period. Desperately, with defeat staring them in the face, the Colonials opened up a bewildering overhead attack led by Sapp, only to have the ball intercepted near the goal line by C. U. Immediately thereafter the whistle ended the game, the score standing 20-0, with the Maroon and Black possessing the twenty.

According to the dope, each team wins the alternate games, and it is George Washington's turn to be at the top of the see-saw, and the season should end with a victory for the Buff and Blue.

A study of the summary given below shows that the C. U. teams have scored 35 points to the Axeman's 35 during the six contests. It also shows that the Cardinals have blanked the Colonials three times, while feeling but one coat of white-wash themselves. But Coach Crum's scrappers are determined to adhere rigidly to precedent for this year at least, presenting the Brooklanders with a goose egg, while acquiring a comfortable score for themselves.

less than they had when the peak was reached.

After his introduction by Dean Van Vleck, President William Mather Lewis, the guest of honor of the occasion, spoke in his usual forcefully interesting manner about the law school registration upon which Dean Van Vleck had commented. He stated that what we wanted most was not a big university but a great university. He also spoke of the great importance of intellectual integrity in the university today, and congratulated the Law School faculty for its splendid attainments in the legal field. He especially pointed out the valuable services rendered the school by those members of the faculty who have been connected with it for the past fifteen to twenty-five years.

Colonel Walter Clephane, senior member of the faculty, told with characteristic wit how glad the faculty members were to be allowed entrance in the Order of the Coif as charter members. He said this was true because they were afraid they might not have gotten in at all otherwise.

Professor Spaulding Entertains

When the speeches were terminated, Professor Hector Spaulding entertained at the piano and sang several songs. This was followed by the concluding event of the evening, which consisted of all those present joining hands and singing the "Stein Song," from the popular operetta, "The Student Prince," and "Auld Lang Syne." Those who were initiated as charter members of the Coif are all members of the Law School Faculty. They are: William C. Van Vleck, Walter Collins Clephane, Edwin Charles Brandenburg, John Paul Earnest, Wendell Phillips Stafford, John Wilmer Latimer, Charles Sager Collier, Hector Galloway Spaulding, Henry White Edgerton, Alvin Eleazar Evans, Earl Casper Arnold, Walter Lewis lions in a hard struggle which terminated in a 6-3 score.

The Bucknell Bisons were surprised when they met the clever, smooth-working Hatchettes, for the Washington boys put up one of the most determined fights seen at Lewisburg this season. It was the wonderful defense presented by the Colonial line and the general fighting spirit of the team that held the Bisons to a 13-0 score. After the game the Bucknell coach was heard to remark that he was greatly surprised by the fight shown by the visitors.

Hatchettes Extend Penn State

The versatile Stehman was injured in the practice preceding the Colonial-Indian game at Williamsburg, Va., and was unable to participate. Despite this loss the Crummen held the opposition to fourteen points, but were unsuccessful in their efforts to penetrate the enemy's defense. In this game the distinctive defensive play of Hottel and Athey of the Buff and Blue line was the outstanding feature. These men continually and consistently broke up the opposition's attack, accounting for the comparatively low score of 14-0 in favor of the Green and Gold team.

The powerful Penn State eleven was extended by a determined and much lighter machine with "Sag" Harris and Capt. Henry Sapp, star backfield men, leading the G. W. attack. The Washington boys played stubbornly, but finally succumbed under a brilliant aerial attack launched by the Lions, losing by a 20-12 score.

The Colonials had some difficulty in defeating the team from the City College of New York in the season opener, a touchdown in the last minute of play by the ever-reliable Stehman deciding the issue, 10-7.

This Year's Team Looms Best

All indications point to the fact that this year's eleven is the strongest team which has ever represented G. W. on the field of battle.

Teams representing Blue Ridge, Randolph-Macon, and American University were no match for the strong Colonials, who gained at will by skirting end-runs, clever line plays and brilliant forward passes directed by the versatile field general, Capt. Sapp. Sapp seemed to be free from injuries this year, as he always comes out of the battle unscathed. Critics of the game claim that he is one of the most natural stars on the Eastern gridirons.

The Catholic University team has been less successful with its schedule this year, winning only three out of eight games; those against the Norfolk Marines, St. John's of Brooklyn, and Blue Ridge College. The game with the sea-soldiers was a pre-season affair, but it gave the Cardinals a chance to smooth out the rough spots in their play. With Nick Manfreda, Ray Foley and Bill Harvey taking the initiative, they led the Catholics to a 39-0 win.

In the first game of the regular season, the Boston College tilt, the Brooklanders met a superior foe, losing by a 28-0 count. The outstanding C. U. players in this contest were Jack McGovern, Bill Shields, acting captain, and Bill Connors, star linemen.

Catholics Play Stiff Schedule

Loyola College of Baltimore also managed to shut out the McAuliffe men but not until after they finally hammered down what seemed to be an impregnable line to score the only touchdown of the afternoon. A placement kick made the score 7-0. "Big Joe" Tierney, the 240 pound guard, was the largest reason why Loyola did not win by a wider margin.

The first Cardinal victory of the regular season came in the game against St. John's College of Brooklyn, New York. The contest was featured by the overhead game employed by the Maroon and Black with Foley doing the tossing to Harvey and Manfreda. The game ended with the count 19 to 7 in favor of the Washington lads.

The Catholics soon tasted defeat again, this time at the hands of the powerful Quantico Marines who scored a 20-7 victory. Had not Ray Foley been so adept at punting and Bill

Moll, Lloyd Hall Sutton, and William T. Fryer.

Other newly initiated members who have all graduated from the Law School with an "A" average are: Paul Shorb, Samuel Herrick, Mathew O'Brien, Harry Friedman, Frederick Pearce, James Pierce, Blake Nicholson, G. Kibby Munson, Earnest Oliver, Marlon Wormhoudt, Golden Dagger, Joseph Cox, L. Russell Alden, Milton Perlman, Miss Rebecca Perlman, and Miss Helen Newman. Of this group, Mr. and Miss Perlman are brother and sister. They graduated from the Law School together and were admitted to the bar at the same time.

Miss Helen Newman, Prof. Hector G. Spaulding, and Prof. Charles S. Collier, chairman, composed the committee in charge of arrangements for the banquet.

I'LL GET YOU YET!

Harvey so clever in running the ball, the Red Birds might have suffered greater humiliation.

The Cardinals lost the next game to Loyola of New Orleans by a 6-0 score. Again it was line defense that stopped Loyola, proving the feature of the game.

Then Blue Ridge happened along and the Brooklanders pounced on the Collegians, literally smothering them under a barrage of 62 points. In this game every member on the squad broke into the line-up but the honors go to Carney and Smythe, backfield substitutes, who ran wild during the fray.

Cardinals Lose to Loyola

Following this slaughter the Catholics hit a snag in the strong Holy Cross eleven, losing by 14-6 score. Again it was the brilliant work of Foley and Harvey that kept their team in the running, but due to one of those inevitable breaks of the game Holy Cross came out on top.

Both of the teams have scored 122 points so far this season, but George Washington has held its opponents to 67 while Catholic University's defense has been penetrated for 82 counters.

As both teams have excellent forward passing combinations, an overhead game may be looked for tomorrow. Sapp, Coleman, and Harris are the most adept of the Crummen at tossing the oval, while Foley and Harvey ably attend to that department of the game for the Cardinals.

The only team that both C. U. and G. W. have met this season is Blue Ridge, but no real comparison of the strength of the two elevens may be gauged due to the fact that they both smothered the Marylanders by overwhelming scores.

The battle tomorrow should be played at top speed from start to finish as each team has capable substitutes to send into the battle in the event that any of the regulars are injured during the fray.

The Turkey Day game has been the objective of both contestants since the beginning of the 1926 gridiron season and it should prove to be one of the best fought battles of the day in the East.

G. W. BASKETBALL FANS INVITED TO PRO GAMES

American Basketball League Extends Courtesy to G. W. Co-eds for Rochester Game

George Washington University girls are invited by the management of the Washington representative in the American Basketball League to attend the professional game at the Arcadia, 14th Street and Park Road, Monday, November 29, at 8 o'clock.

In extending the invitation, Al Stern, business manager of the Washington Club, emphasizes the point that there are no obligations, and whether the young ladies come accompanied or unaccompanied they will receive every courtesy and will be assigned to reserved seats. This plan is instituted in order to increase interest in basketball among the members of the fair sex. George Washington is the first of the local universities to receive the invitation and it is hoped that there will be a response.

Rochester, one of the fastest teams in the nine-club circuit, will be Monday night's attraction. In addition there will be a preliminary game between the Arcadia girls, considered the fastest in the city, and an opponent to be chosen later. It is probable that boys' rules will apply in this game. The main attraction will be followed by dancing with music furnished by a ten-piece Meyer Davis band.

GIRLS' TENNIS TITLE TO BE DECIDED TODAY

Hard-Fought Encounter Expected in Morehead-Walker Clash

The last battle of the fall tennis tournament will be fought at 2 o'clock today on the University court when Frances Walker and Phoebe Morehead meet for final honors.

Miss Morehead won last year's tournament, and Miss Walker was champion two successive years, 1923-24. The scores of the contenders to date are as follows: Walker, versus Louise Murphy, 6-0, 6-1; versus Helen Staples, 6-0, 6-1; versus Louise Omwake, 6-0, 6-3. Morehead versus Helen Somervell, 6-1, 6-0; versus Mary Ryan, 6-1, 6-1.

Frances Walker reached her position in the finals by a victory over Louise Omwake, 6-0, 6-3, while Phoebe Morehead's defeat of Elizabeth Chickering in the last round was decisive enough to promise hard competition for Miss Walker.

DEAN BORDEN RETURNS

Dean Borden, of the University Medical School, left the city Monday to attend a four-day session of the Southern Medical Association meeting in Atlanta, Georgia.

S. A. E. BEATEN BY KAPPA SIGS

Court Championship is Decided in Close Contest By 17 to 16 Score

SAPP AND TRIBLE STARS

Exciting Game Comes to Tie in Last Quarter and Free Throw Provides Margin

Kappa Sigma is basketball champion of the University. In a contest featured with many thrills and which repeatedly brought spectators to their feet, they edged out Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 17 to 16.

It was a heart-breaking game for the Sig Alphas. The quarter ended with them leading, 3 to 2, but after that Kappa Sigma held a small lead at nearly all times. At one time the lead widened to five points, but determined action each time brought the score up. The half ended with Kappa Sigma leading, 10 to 8.

Excellent guarding on the part of the Kappa Sigs and the goal-shooting of Sapp and Tribble turned the trick. Sigma Alpha Epsilon was improving in form in the third quarter, a trait which this team has shown throughout the series, and the score stood 13 to 11, with the Kappa Sigs leading.

S. A. E. Ties Score

The Sig Alphas had their nearest chance for victory in the last quarter, however. They evened the score, 16 to 16. A free throw gave Kappa Sigma the necessary margin. Kappa Sigma spared for time. The game was over.

Fouls, both personal and technical, featured the game. Either side might have won on the free throws. Dope favored Sigma Alpha Epsilon a little, and the S. A. E.'s might have won, had Red Thompson, who was hurt in the Theta Delta Chi game, been playing with them. He was considered one of their strongest players.

Credit should go to the Kappa Sig guards, particularly Popham, for tight guarding. Sapp and Lopsman passed unerringly. Tribble shot baskets in usual form. Stars for S. A. E. were Knapp and Durant.

G. W. GOLF TEAM PLANS FOR SEVERAL MATCHES

Meeting to Be Held in Corcoran Hall Tonight

The George Washington University Golf Team will hold a meeting in Room 15, Corcoran Hall, at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday, November 24. All candidates are invited to attend, as the team is being organized to carry out the spring schedule, which will consist of matches with the teams of University of Virginia, Catholic University, Georgetown University, and the University of Pennsylvania. Other matches are in prospect.

Those persons interested, but who are unable to attend the meeting, are urged to get in touch with Joe Bloom, 452 Newton Place N. W., or call Adams 6342.

Promising material has already appeared in the form of John F. Brawner, former Junior Amateur Champion of the District, and Charles F. Cole, present Public Links Champion of the District. Ralph Thrasher, and H. Foster are among the candidates appearing to date.

HATCHETTE HARRIERS MEET JOHNS HOPKINS

Cross-Country Teams Will Run Around Speedway Course on Thanksgiving Day

The George Washington harriers will meet the strong Johns Hopkins University cross-country team in a five-mile race around Haines Point at 10:30 a. m. on Thanksgiving Day.

As planned, the course will start at the John Paul Jones statue at the foot of Seventeenth Street, and continue along the gravel path around the Speedway to Haines Point, thence along the west side of the Speedway to the finish line on the bridge path near the Field House of the Golf Course in East Potomac Park.

Hurd Willett, "Domy" Domigan, Floyd Pomeroy, Ralph Brown, Sherman Johnson, and Perry Matluck will represent the University, while Johns Hopkins will enter its team which has created such an enviable record for itself in southern cross-country runs this year.

The visitors will present a strong team, having beaten Navy earlier in the season. Gwynn of Hopkins was individual winner of the Navy meet and will press Willett for individual honors.

Negotiations are under way relative to holding the South Atlantic cross-country championships under the auspices of George Washington University. The meet will probably be held in early December and prospects are bright that the local team will carry off the honors.

A large crowd is expected to attend the meet, which promises to be one of the best in which George Washington has been represented this season. The officials have not yet been selected.

THE DRAMA

SHAKESPEARE DRAMA OFFERED BY GUILD

"Othello," a spectacular production of William Shakespeare's immortal drama, done in Berlin with a cast of European favorites, is presented at the Wardman Park Theater this week by the Motion Picture Guild. Emil Jannings will be seen as Othello; Werner Kraus as Iago; Lya de Putti as Emilia; and Ica Senkeff, frequently referred to as the most beautiful woman in Budapest, as Desdemona.

This first picturization of the classic utilizes the famous machinery, and scenic and lighting effects installed by Lubitsch for his historical films.

There will be performances every evening at 7 and 9, and a matinee on Thanksgiving Day at 3.

STUDENT IS NAMED TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Betty Wiltbank Appointed to Represent University at National Student Federation Meeting

Elizabeth Wiltbank has just been appointed by President Lewis to represent George Washington University at the second annual meeting of the National Student Federation of the United States, which is to be held this year at Ann Arbor, Mich., December 2, 3, and 4.

The Federation is composed of delegates from all the leading colleges and universities of the United States. Annual meetings are held. To date more than one hundred and twenty colleges have accepted invitations to this year's congress. It is organized for the purpose of vitalizing American education by creating a spirit of cooperation among the college students throughout the country, to further an intelligent student opinion on questions of national and international importance, and to develop understanding between colleges of America and of foreign countries.

To Send Students Abroad

As a means of accomplishing this latter, students will be sent abroad every year, hospitality being provided them through the National Unions of Europe, introductions being received to leading European students and educators through this same union.

At present arrangements are being made with the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Learning and the American Association of University Professors whereby the eminent educators in these organizations will act as consultants on undergraduate problems of the federation.

Elizabeth Wiltbank, George Washington representative, will leave for Michigan on December 1. Betty has been prominent in student affairs since her freshman year, being identified with dramatic organizations, the Hatchet, Episcopal Club, and the Central Club, as well as being connected with the Women's Advisory Council. Last year's delegate was John Trimble, who brought back interesting reports from the congress.

HOCKEY ELEVEN WINS AND LOSES

Hopkins Girls Defeat American U; Lose to William and Mary by 6-3 Score

G. W. LEADS AT HALF TIME

Fast Passing Game Features Attack of Hatchette Team at Williamsburg

Snatching victory out of defeat, the hard-fighting William and Mary hockey team overcame a two goal lead to defeat the George Washington girls 6 to 3 in the last half of the fast game played at Williamsburg on Saturday, November 20. G. W. led 2 to 1 at the end of the first half, but in the second the superior training of the Squaws enabled them to rush five goals through the wearied Washington team.

G. W. scored first. Early in the game the effective passing of the Colonial line carried the ball to the striking circle, and Alice Massey, right inner, caged the goal. The same tactics secured another point late in the half, then William and Mary rallied to hold the G. W. ball carriers at the striking circle and to get a goal for the Virginia school past the stone wall defense of Louise Omwake, goal guard.

For thirty-five minutes it was G. W.'s game, but in the second half the still fresh Indians came back with a rushing attack that swept through the game but wilted Hopkinswomen for five goals. The lone G. W. point was gained in the last few minutes of play, when Valden, right wing, sent the ball from a penalty corner for Graham, center forward, to cage.

Fast passing, rushing the ball, and brilliant stops by the goal guards were features of the game. The pass work of the Washington school excelled that of the Virginians, who won largely through their superior staying powers and their speed in rushing the ball. Omwake and Massey put over outstanding plays for the Buff and Blue, as did Brandenburg and Lutz, fullbacks, and DuBoise, halfback.

The game, which was the only one played by the Squaws, was the climax of the season for the G. W. squad, although a team was sent against Friend's School, Tuesday, November 23.

The George Washington eleven outclassed their American University opponents by a 3-1 score in their second inter-collegiate game of the season last Wednesday. This was the American U's first appearance in the field of varsity hockey. Their players, though able individual performers, lacked the well-organized team work which brought the Buff and Blue such a decisive victory. The G. W. lineup, with the advantage of greater experience and more highly developed skill, was able to put up a good fight and exhibited splendid playing form.

The lineup for the William and Mary game was as follows:

GIRLS' DEBATE TEAM WINS FROM CORNELL

agent for collection and disbursement of educational funds. "The affirmative," said Lillian Rhodes, first speaker for George Washington, "are proposing a radical change which will not be an incentive to our present system." Until this system can be proved a failure we maintain that it is unnecessary. Restricted immigration together with day and night schools in foreign communities, have practically done away with illiteracy.

Jeanette Hanford, second debater for Cornell proposed to bring the standards of the worst schools up to those of the best. "This could well be done," she said, "by the 'dollar per dollar' plan whereby the state and nation share equally the expense of education. Furthermore, we propose a national council of education composed of 48 states cooperating together."

Advocates National System

"Our educational system," said Fannie Neiman, second G. W. speaker, "should be national only in its effect. It should be interested, but should not govern. The situation calls for local supervision. This is a big country with different economic and climatic conditions in different localities. Quoting President Coolidge, the states will lose responsibility, which is rightfully theirs."

The need for greater efficiency and more research was the central theme of Margaret Plunkett's argument, last speaker for Cornell. She said that better salaries would not make better teachers and that real economy would come only when we get the most out of what we spend.

"The proposed plan is totally unwise," said Ruth Newburn, the closing debater, "and would lead eventually to federal control. Over-organization, standardization, and equalization of wealth, all embodied in this plan, would tend to break down our self-government and self-reliance."

The rebuttal, which was made by only one speaker on either side, showed unusual knowledge of the subject and marked ability in impromptu speaking. Ruth Newburn, of the negative, held that national supervision would only mean federal investigation, that Army Alpha tests made during the war showing vast illiteracy are not applicable now, and

James R. Kirkland is a native of Delaware. He received most of his early education in Washington high schools. He is now a student in George Washington Law School. Mr. Kirkland was a member of last year's debate team, and is a member of the Columbian Debating Society.

W. F. Williamson came to Columbian College from Oklahoma. He has been prominently connected with debating since enrolling here. He was a member of the Varsity debating team last year, and is now president of the Columbian Debating Society.

Tickets for this event are now on sale. Students will be admitted on their activities cards; the admission charge to others will be $1. PLAYERS TO PRESENT THREE-ACT FARCE SOON

"The Whole Town's Talking" Will Run November 26

On Friday, November 26, the Players will present their three-act comedy, "The Whole Town's Talking," starring Minnie Lee Williams, and directed by Fern Henninger.

Warren Johnson is taking the part of the movie actress' husband in the farce, and Maxine de Silvia will take the role of Sadie Bloom, the dancing teacher. With these roles filled, the rehearsals are bringing the play into presentation form.

The curtain will rise at 8:30 sharp, and the reserve seats will be held until the end of the first act.

that this supervision would not be dignified by the national government, but only injected into politics.

"We are not so much concerned with theory," said Margaret Plunkett, affirmative rebuttal speaker, "as we are with what is practical. We are now a nation with a national consciousness."

After the refutation the judges, who were Charles T. Kemmerer, O. C. Merrill, and Mark A. Smith, rendered a 2-1 decision in favor of George Washington. Announcement of the verdict was made by Professor Gilbert L. Hall, of the Law School, who presided over the meeting.

While in Washington the Cornell women were the guests at a luncheon given by Pi Beta Phi sorority Friday afternoon, and dinner guests of the team at the Men's University Club, Friday night.

GILMER POPULAR IN DRAMA SERIES

Interest in Drama Is Growing According to Statement of Authorities

"Drama is essential to our lives and we must not neglect it; it is a means of culture," emphasized Albert Hatton Gilmer, Professor of Dramatic Literature at Tufts College, Boston, in his series of lectures in Corcoran Hall on Monday, November 15, and Tuesday, November 16.

"Interest in drama is growing," declared Mr. Gilmer. "The Elizabethan Age and our age are somewhat akin. I am an optimist and am sure a new age is upon us. Never before were such wonderful plays given by the students in high schools and universities. They appreciate drama and have the courage to go on."

"The business men of Detroit have spent thousands of dollars on a model theater. Here they produce their own plays twice a month and receive rest and joy in creating a character in an entirely different stage of life from their own."

European Drama Best

"European nations have done wonderful things for the drama," Gilmer continued. "In our country, drama was tending to head in scientific and economic directions. In trying to arrive at a fact, imagination was destroyed, but through the efforts of Europeans, greater elasticity, dreams, visions, and variety of scenes are being put into the drama. Germany and Russia have contributed to a great extent by making the stage larger and more realistic, and by bringing the audience in closer contact with the actors."

"This age, both in Europe and America, is dominated by two elements—the horizontal element, speed—and the vertical element, aspiration. Thus drama reflects mobility and variety."

"While in Europe last summer, Professor Gilmer met such stage personalities as Craig, Reinhardt, and Jessner, who are working toward the same goal as he—the improvement of stage-craft and the production of good drama. He collected some beautiful illustrations of stage settings and European theaters with which he illustrated his last two lectures."

New York Drama Center

"Amazing activity all over New York gives me great hope for the future. There have been more failures of poor plays in New York City in the last year than ever before, and that is because the people want better plays. We will no longer substitute poor drama. We want the best."

"The stage and drama have progressed and improved at a rapid rate in England, France, Germany, and Russia in the last decade, and America is following in their footsteps," he concluded.

GIRLS' "ACTIVITY CUP" COMPETITION CLOSE

Ermytrude Valden Leads Race With Thirty-Points, Humphrey Second With Twenty-five

Ermytrude Valden is leading in this year's race for the Activities Cup, with 30 points to her credit. Next to her stands Helen Humphrey with 25 points.

The "Activities Cup" is awarded to the George Washington girl who excels in athletics for the year. One point is given for every hour spent at basketball, rifle, swimming, hockey, or any of the girls' sports listed.

The Freshmen are forging to the front with points running close. Third in line is Betty Alexander, who has 22 points. After her there is Estelle Humphrey, with 20 points, and Effie Wade, with 17. Five girls, Myrtle Crouch, Alice Graham, Verna Parsons, Helen Prentiss, and Dorothy Shaw, come next with 16 points each. The count was taken November the first. Hockey is included up to the class games, and tennis through the first round.

The cup was won last year by Ruth Jackson, who stepped to the front on the last lap of the race. Ermytrude Valden ran a close second.

MIMES TO PRESENT

The Mimes are working hard on the production of their new play, "Juno and the Paycock," by Sean Casey. There have been no definite parts assigned, but it is understood that Lonneke Davison, Ann Wrightsan, Mary Griffith and several others are to be listed in the cast. The play, which is an Irish one, is to be given within the next two months and, according to Foster Hagen, the president, will be a fine production and well worth our hard-earned cash.

Will Hutchins Speaks Before Art League

Many Illustrated Talks Planned For 1926-27 Season Open to All Members

Miss Elizabeth Lewis led a discussion of "Traveling Exhibitions of Art," illustrated by a collection of etchings, at a Studio Assembly of the Art and Archaeology League, last week. At the first meeting of the League, held November 13, Will Hutchins, professor of Art at the American University, gave an illustrated lecture on St. Francis of Assisi in Art.

A number of unusual studio assemblies are planned for the 1926-27 season, which are open to all members of the League. Among these will be informal talks by Commander Clephane, Arthur Stanley Riggs, and Mrs. Charles Wood, some of them illustrated in color.
